2 The main elements of the Company's internal control and risk management systems in connection with financial reporting

Control environment

The Board of Directors is ultimately responsible for Maersk Drilling's internal controls and risk management in relation to financial reporting. The Audit & Risk Committee assists the Board of Directors in overseeing the financial reporting and risk management process. Executive Management is responsible for the implementation of effective internal controls over financial reporting.

Executive Management implemented a clear overview of responsibilities and authority structure in the financial reporting process, with segregation of duties between the teams preparing financial reporting and the team controlling the reporting. Policies have been established outlining accounting treatment of significant business flows and transactions. The same policies and systems are applied globally.

Executive Management reviews internal financial reporting and supporting business documentation on a monthly basis and quarterly, semi-annual and annual external financial reporting prior to their release.

Risk Assessment

On an annual basis, the Executive Management performs a risk assessment of financial reporting processes focusing on identifying significant risk of error or fraud. New risks are added based on materiality of underlying transactions and likelihood of error or fraud resulting from the accounting processes applied. At the same time, all previously implemented controls are assessed to ensure efficiency of the controlling process.

Internal control activities

Control activities mitigating significant risks have been defined as part of the financial reporting processes. Internal controls include both manual and system controls. The same control requirements apply for all entities and are performed using standard global systems.

Monthly senior management review sessions are carried out, where significant financial items are discussed and additional need-basis reviews or controls are added based on the financial reporting for the period.

Information and communication

Financial policies are documented in manuals and process maps. They are available to all users performing accounting and consolidation tasks. Classroom and desktop training sessions are arranged to increase the awareness of processes and controls.

Global ERP and consolidation systems ensure use of standard chart of accounts and increases the transparency and reliability of the reported numbers.

Monitoring

An assessment of the design and operating effectiveness of all controls implemented to mitigate significant risks identified through the risk assessment process is carried out by a team independent of those responsible for performing controls. All risks and mitigating controls are assessed minimum once a year. The assessment results are presented to those responsible for performing controls, to the Executive Management and to the Audit and Risk Committee.

The external auditors elected by the Annual General Meeting evaluate internal controls within their scope and report significant weaknesses to the Executive Management and the Audit & Risk Committee.

Maersk Drilling does not currently have an internal audit function. The Audit & Risk Committee annually reviews the need for establishing an independent assurance function.

Recommendation	Explanation and comments

3.2 Independence of the board of directors

3.2.1. The Committee recommends that at least half of the members of the board of directors elected by the general meeting be independent persons, in order for the board of directors to be able to act independently of special interests.

To be considered independent, this person may not:

- be or within the past five years have been a member of the executive board, or senior staff member in the company, a subsidiary or an associated company;
- within the last five years, have received large emoluments from the company/group, a subsidiary or an associated company in a different capacity than as member of the board of directors;
- represent or be associated with a controlling shareholder;
- within the past year, have had significant business relations (e.g. personally or indirectly as partner or employee, shareholder, customer, supplier or member of management in companies with corresponding connection) with the company, a subsidiary or an associated company;
- be or within the past three years have been employed or been a partner in the same company as the auditor elected by the general meeting;
- be the chief executive officer in a company with cross-memberships with the company;
- have been a member of the board of directors for more than 12 years; or
- be a close relative with persons who are not considered independent.

Even if a member of the board of directors is not covered by the above criteria, certain conditions may exist that will lead the board of directors to decide that one or more members cannot be regarded as independent.

We comply

The Company complies with the recommendation as three out of six members of the Board of Directors elected by the general meeting are considered independent.

It is common and widely recognized that larger shareholders are represented on the Board of Directors. Further, it is considered desirable and in the interest of all the Company's shareholders that a member of the Board of Directors has thorough knowledge of Maersk Drilling and the offshore oil & gas industry.

The Chairman of the Board of Directors has previously served as Chief Executive Officer of certain companies within Maersk Drilling and for such reason cannot be considered independent.

Two of the members of the Board of Directors are associated with the major shareholder of the Company, A.P. Møller Holding A/S.

Board candidates have been elected based on their skills, professional experience, competencies within the offshore oil & gas industry and ability to actively contribute their knowledge and experience to the continued development of Maersk Drilling.

Information regarding the board members' independence are included in the Company's latest annual report.
